Creating Trust, Nurturing Responsibility in Our Schools and Kindergartens: New Leadership Strategies

Much research makes it seem as if educators have to choose between blind faith in schools and kindergartens on the one hand and top-down control on the other – but there are many more effective ways for leaders to bring about positive changes. In this highly interactive presentation and workshop, Dennis Shirley will show how leaders in top-performing schools and kindergartens around the world are developing new methods of working together.
